Slow Wine

The annual Slow Wine guide, published by Slow Food Editore, adopts a new approach to wine criticism: not only reviews and organoleptic descriptions but a real wine storytelling where the deep and direct knowledge of the wine companies is the one and only protagonist. We visit all cellars and take into consideration the wine quality, adherence to terroir, value for money and give greater weight and importance to the estates' production methods. Through the guide and international tour we support and promote small-scale Italian winemakers who are using traditional techniques, working with respect for the environment, and safeguarding the incredible biodiversity of grape varieties that are part of Italy's heritage.

I Vini del Piemonte

I Vini del Piemonte is a consortium of promotion that includes some 200 Piedmontese wine companies. The aim is to promote and communicate in the best way possible the richness and peculiarities of the different Piedmontese wine designations. Every year, the consortium organizes more than 30 promotional initiatives in different countries around the world.

Meaning of the partnership between Slow Wine and I Vini del Piemonte

Slow Food started out almost thirty years ago in Piedmont. Despite the exponential growth of members worldwide and the huge spread of Carlo Petrini's ideas, its headquarters remain in Bra, a small Piedmontese town. Its heart still beats in Piedmont and the first events were centred on the wine of this region. Slow Food believes that wine, just as with food, must be "good, clean, and fair"—not just good. Wine is an agricultural product, just like any of the foods we eat, and has an impact on the lives of the people who produce it, as well as on the environment—through pesticides, herbicides and excessive water consumption which are all commonplace in conventional wine production.

One of the historic companies of the Collio, in its long history it has been crossed by various phases, thanks to which it has managed to find its identity. The first harvest to be bottled was in 1964. The Collio Consortium was founded in 1967, of which Silvan was one of the first members. Decades of milestones, such as the construction of a new cellar, the current base in 1979 and the start of quality selection in 1984, mark the most recent history of the family. Together with father, Silvan, are Marko and Boris. Among the autochthonous varieties, Ribolla Gialla stands above them, re-discovered and appreciated throughout the world: the classic version of “Think Yellow” or the Ribolla Gialla Reserve di Oslavia.

Selva Capuzza is a small farm dedicated to producing wines exclusively from 6 indigenous grape varieties. The Estate is located 4 km south of Lake Garda's coast in a very precious area where three wine appellations overlap each other: Garda Classico, San Martino della Battaglia and Lugana. Here the climate is gentle, and moderated by the lake, there are many olive trees, a wood which was an old truffle plantation, wide open spaces dedicated to biodiversity, a park with mulberry trees. As you walk this diverse property, you will discover the winery in the center, surrounded by vineyards, meadows, the truffle plantation with its oaks, hornbeams and willows, the restaurant Cascina Capuzza, and agriturismo Borgo San Donino.

Tenuta Mazzolino is a story of passion, dedication, but above all of great love for the vineyard and its traditions in total respect for the nature that surrounds it. The story of the Mazzolino Tenuta began about forty years ago with my grandfather Enrico when, on one of his travels, he was seduced by this land that everyone already called “the Pinot Noir hill.” Two of his great friends, Luigi Veronelli and Giacomo Bologna helped him to embark on this journey; they noticed right away the potential of the white, chalky lands surrounding the winery, land that the French had discovered had a vocation for Pinot Noir back in the mid-19th century, when it was still “Old Piedmont.”

Borgo Maragliano is situated at 450 meters above sea level, on a natural terrace of the Langhe hills, in the heart of Loazzolo. It is a very special place for growing grapes, crossed by the Marin, an onshore wind coming from the Mar Ligure which favors the maturation of the grapes, enhancing their aromas and fragrances. The land around Loazzolo is characteristic in its geological formation, with typical marls and sandstones. The wines are obtained from grapes of Moscato, Chardonnay and Pinot Noir as the result of careful and meticulous labor.

Cascina Amalia is a winery located in the Barolo Region, in Monforte d'Alba, with vineyards located around the farmhouse and in 'Bussia' and 'Le Coste di Monforte', some of the most prestigious Crus in the Langhe for the production of Barolo. Our winery has seven hectares of vineyards, all situated in the municipality of Monforte d'Alba, and produces the classic wines of the area: Dolcetto, Barbera, Nebbiolo and Barolo. We also have a small production of a rare white grape variety with still mysterious origins, the Rossese Bianco. Paolo Boffa, owner of the cellar, has always paid attention to respect for nature. In 2019 he decided to start the conversion towards completely organic agriculture, until obtaining organic certification in 2022.

Borgogno is the most historical winery in Barolo, since 1761. The protagonist was Cesare Borgogno, who decided in 1920 to forget half of Barolo Riserva production in the cellar and selling it almost 20 years later. The result is a largest collection of the greatest vintages of Barolo, and since this intuition, the most important Borgogno tradition began, getting rich over the time by three historical crus in Barolo: Cannubi, Liste, Fossati, which are Barolo single-vineyards. Wines are made in full respect of tradition: long and spontaneous fermentation in concrete and long aging in large Slavonian oak barrels. We cultivate our vineyards in Barolo, Madonna di Como and Colli Tortonesi for the Timorasso. Since 2019 we have the certification of organic agriculture.

Our story begins in Montelupo Albese, where Beppe Caviola rented the vineyard of his dreams, called Barturot, and thanks to the skills he learned while studying at the Alba School of Enology, he began making wine in the garage of his parents' house. Driven by curiosity and intuition Beppe Caviola is convinced that innovation should always be in the service of tradition. Beppe's big debut came when, encouraged by already established Barolo star Elio Altare, he bottled what would be his first label, Dolcetto Barturot. Another gamble is immediately placed: in Montelupo, Beppe also manages a small plot of Barbera that he decides to vinify according to new orientations; the so-famous Bric du Luv is born, which sums up on itself the evolution that is beginning.

We are in Verduno. From the logo, the Diego Morra winery tells its values. At the heart of it all, a stylized V represents Verduno; the three intertwined M speak of the Morra family, of the Mosca farmhouse and of Monvigliero, the most famous Barolo mention in Verduno, of which the winery owns 4 hectares in three different exposures. 32 hectares of owned vineyards between Verduno, La Morra and Roddi: 14 hectares are cultivated with Nebbiolo to make Barolo into 10 different “cru/MGA”. 70,000 bottles produced, selecting the best grapes from 32 hectares. 11 labels are currently produced, but the most representative of Diego Morra wines are certainly the Verduno Pelaverga DOC, a small native vine, and the very elegant and intense Barolos.

DonnaLia is a winery situated in the province of Biella, Northern Piedmont, resting on the Moraine hills of the Serra of Ivrea in San Secondo, Salussola, with vineyards positioned 300 meters above sea level. The winery falls within the area of the Canavese DOC, which greatly benefits from the microclimate of the nearby Lake Viverone, who's excellent sun exposure and unusual glacial soil assists the overall growing process. The wines of the Canavese share common characteristics. All are influenced by a mild temperature, combined with the constant benefit of general ventilation from the nearby Valdostan Alps and by strong diurnal/nocturnal thermal excursions especially during the pre-harvest period.

In the heart of the Langhe, in the hamlet of Bussia di Monforte d'Alba, is Cascina Sciulun, a typical historic farmhouse, built in the mid-nineteenth century and extended in the 1940s. The house has always belonged to the Conterno family. It was nonno Pietro who allocated 18 hectares of land to Nebbiolo vineyards, initially to sell to other wineries for vinification, later destined for the creation of prestigious wines. Then his son Giacomo and his grandson Franco. In recent years, Franco's two sons—Daniele and Andrea—joined the company, following in the footsteps of their grandfather, bringing fresh insight and innovation to the winery and vineyards, continuing the family business with passion and dedication.

This is when the first production of single-cru Moscato began. With the success of our Moscato business, we decided to branch out and focus on red grapes as Barbera and Nebbiolo. The first Barbaresco was Gallina 1995, followed by Staderi '96 and finally Valeirano '97. On the year 2000 they decided to acquire a few hectares in Grinzane. Cavour to produce Barolo. In 2001 a new winery was built in Tuscany. The latest adventure began '18 by acquiring some hectares within Tortona hills, Piedmont, to produce Timorasso.

“Unicorn wines” from the volcanic island of Lipari, somewhere a little bit North the Eastern side of Sicily, in the Mediterranean sea. That’s what Tenuta di Castellaro has been doing over the last 15 years after repropagating ancient varieties such as Corinto Nero and Malvasia delle Lipari, all tended in organic protocols and with the alberello system. The Castellaro bioenergetic cellar is disposed on three levels and takes advantage of gravity, sun and the proverbial Aeolian winds for the production of wines that speak a language that is both ancient and contemporary at the same time. The Pieropan winery was founded in 1880 by Leonildo Pieropan, it achieved national and international success between the 1970s and 1980s thanks to his grandson Leonildo.

Today the winery is led by the family's 4th generation: Andrea and Dario who are sons of Leonildo and his wife Teresita.

With an extension of 75 hectares, 55 in the Soave territory and 20 in Valpolicella, the company produces about 650,000 bottles per year of which about 65% is exported to 55 countries worldwide.

RUBINELLI VAJOL is a small family run winery situated in the heart of Valpolicella classica. Rubinelli is the surname of our family and Vajol is the name of our land. The winery is managed by the second and third generation of the engineer Giorgio Rubinelli, respectively his two sons, Renzo and Alberto, and his nephew, Nicola. The beautiful restored tufa country house surrounded by its vineyards was bought by the father of Giorgio, Gaetano Rubinelli, in 1953 since he was fascinated by the perfect setting of his native land. Gaetano Rubinelli projected and built the Chievo Dam along the river Adige. The basin confirmation of VAJOL, a natural amphitheater, guarantees excellent soil hydration and the privileged southern exposure gives perfect solar radiation to the vineyards.

The story of the Piazza winery began in San Rocco Seno d'Elvio, a small outlying district of the town of Alba, in the 1960s. Over the course of the years, many plots of land were purchased and converted for the growing of the varietal. Then in 1979 the first wine was made from the grapes they had placed so much faith in, and three years later it was to bear the name Barbaresco. Today the vineyards extend over more than 70 hectares (170 acres), mostly located near the winery itself, but some in other municipalities: Mango, Neviglie, Guarene and Novello.

The turning point came in the 1960s when Luciana Vietti married winemaker and art connoisseur Alfredo Currado, whose intuitions made him both symbol and architect of some of the most significant revolutions of the time. His legacy was taken up by Luca Currado Vietti (Luciana and Alfredo's son) and his wife Elena, who have continued along the path of the pursuit of quality and considered experimentation. In 2016 the historic winery was acquired by Krause Holdings, enabling Luca and Elena, always at the head of Vietti brand, to add a number of prized crus to the estate's holdings and maintain a family approach.

The land was tilled by hand 5 generations ago and the vines, which grow many of which are more than 100 years old, continue to thrive. It is the goal of these three “Garagistes” to continue to uphold local winemaking tradition and farm their own vineyards by hand with organic practices. The yields are extremely low but the juice is worth the squeeze so to speak and the local varieties of Cannonau, Monica, and Muristeddu thrive at several vineyard sites peppered throughout the hills. All of the grapes are grown over 22 acres of land between 1,575 – 2,297 feet elevation in rugged terrain with soils comprised of white and pink granite.

The vineyard parcels lie at elevations between 300 and 400 metres and face south and southeast, optimal conditions for high-quality viticulture. The estate has a significant complex of alberese limestone marl, classic to the Chianti zone, but the vineyards enjoy a very particular climate, thanks to the valley that opens in front of the vineyards and invites up great draughts of air and wide day-night temperature differentials. The vineyards are masterfully tended by an expert team headed by nationally-respected agronomist Federico Curtaz, renowned for his long experience and sensitivity.

In 2007, however, Graziano became the sole owner, under his direction the company grew and the territories – Monte Grande (the company cru), Monte Bisson in Soave, and Morandina in Valpolicella – became more important.

The project was launched at the end of the 90s with the desire to realize a clear vision: to systematize a vision that is still unrelated to its constituent elements - landscape, climate, vines, tradition - with a view to looking at innovation as a bridge towards the future, without lingering in nostalgic temptations. Gradual action, free from uncertainties, has created a model company in terms of sustainability and local development.

Centopassi is the winemaking soul of Libera Terra cooperatives that cultivate lands in Sicily seized from the mafia. The vineyards are located in the Alto Belice Corleonese, an overwhelmingly beautiful territory, which is particularly suitable for high quality wine production. Vast and untainted landscapes, high altitudes that exceed 3,000 feet above the sea level, calcareous peaks and predominantly clay-rich soils make this corner of the Mediterranean an ideal place for wine growing and unlike most stereotypes attributed to Sicilian wine. The wines display the characteristics of each vineyard, soil and grape variety. Here elegance prevails, freshness is everywhere, ensuring wine drinkability thanks to the painstaking care for the vineyards and to wine making processes, which emphasize the maximum expression of the fruit.

Al McDonald, a co-founder of the LIVE certification, planted the original Seven Springs Vineyard where land stewardship is a mantra. Evening Land Seven Springs is the last of a four vineyard group assembled by wine entrepreneur Mark Tarlov in 2005 under the Evening Land name. Sashi Moorman began supervising Evening Land Sta. Rita Hills (now Domaine de la Côte) in 2006 and eventually took over Seven Springs with partner Raj Parr in 2014 from Dominique Lafon of Domaine Des Comte Lafon who had been consulting. This year, the duo assumed full ownership.

Sashi Moorman and his wife Melissa started Piedrasassi in 2003 as a bakery utilizing heritage wheat and a winery specializing in Syrah. To Moorman, Piedrasassi exists because of his love for elegant, cool climate Syrah. Now, with climate change, fewer people get that style even in France. So, his beautiful wines exist in small release, well-known to a Syrah intelligentsia.

Of the collaborations of Sashi Moorman and Raj Parr, Sandhi Wines may be the most significant because the two believe that the brightest shining star of the Sta Rita Hills is, wait for it... Chardonnay, not Pinot Noir. So, production is structured on exceptional, value-driven Chardonnay with which they intend to lead the region into the future. This said, Sandhi takes Pinot Noir no less seriously.

Lake County vintner Clay Shannon is bringing big changes to this under the radar wine region, which has always aspired to greater recognition and prominence given the quality of its fruit. He began in Lake County in 1996, and has grown to 400,000 case production a year. A visionary, he's now moving into the organically grown wine market, transitioning both his high end Ovis and more moderately priced Clay Shannon brands into the fold.

Known for its fine Pinot and Chardonnay, it's transitioned to all estate grapes which it certified organic in 2021, becoming the second largest organic vineyard owner (after Ridge Vineyards) in Sonoma County. A top estate in the Carneros, known for Chardonnay and Pinot Noir, it's owned by international art collectors, Danish born Allan and Chinese native Mei Warburg, and displays their 50 world class sculptures on the grounds. In 2022, they added artist Olafur Eliasson's spectacular new rainbow saturated Vertical Panorama Pavilion. Dan Fishman, vice president of winemaking and vineyards, makes the wines, focusing on block by block micro-farming techniques in the vineyards.

Troon is a showcase for regenerative organic and biodynamic farming, developing a healthy ecosystem with diverse crops and excellent wines. The winery is a leader in regenerative and biodynamic farming, as well as an innovator in exploring the potential of lesser known grape varieties growing in popularity. Founded in 1972 by the late Dick Troon, it's now owned by Bryan and Denise White, who hired general manager Craig Camp to go organic and biodynamic as well as to diversify into permaculture crops with farm and biodynamic consultant Andrew Beede. Nate Wall is the winemaker.

George Unti planted grapes in the 1990s and in 1997 he and his son Mick started making wine. As Italophiles they grow many Italian grapes varieties, including Sangiovese, Aglianico, Zinfandel (Primitivo clone), Barbera, Montepulciano, Fiano, Vermentino and experimental blocks of Falanghina and Biancolella. For 40 years they sold most of their grapes. As of 2022, Unti no longer sells their grapes. Instead they are increasing production on their popular Rosso del Campo and Petite Frier wines.

Randy Czech got into Napa wine production in 2002, but it wasn't until 2010, after reconnecting with Erin Mitchell, that they started their own project after sourcing some grapes from a small farmer on the Sonoma Coast. 2012 was their first commercial release, and they have grown the label very slowly, being selective about the vineyards they work with, and pulling together a roster of meticulously farmed sites, producing more serious wines from these coastal ridges.

Importer: Jackson Family

Winemaker Erik Kramer and the WillaKenzie team are moving toward less filtration, allowing the natural microflora in their herbicide free estate to play a larger role with fermentations at this Jackson Family owned winery. Recently they began building a native yeast culture in the vineyard, using that culture to inoculate Pinot Noir fermentation (Pied de Cuv) with excellent results.
